

RRS employed 200mm x 100mm x 1m hardwood blocks to support it, while a 12t Valla from its mini-crane fleet lifted the skidding system's tracks. Once the tracks were in position, the gearbox was slid away from connectors before turning it 90 degrees so it could fit through the door.

Barber said: "The ground was not in good condition so we had to lay steel plates on the floor to distribute the point loads. Further, the workplace was a live power generation situation so health and safety was of paramount importance. We were onsite for two days for the removal and two days for the return."

Such was RRS's commitment to making the job as safe as possible, the site's safety manager awarded certificates to all personnel involved. Jon Blampied, Martin Tupper, Bob Counsell, Adam Sherville, Dave Sullivan and Gary Jones also received £20 Amazon vouchers each. Barber concluded: "We are very proud of SSE's recognition. The team were awarded for the way the project was carried out in a safe manner, with the whole team working safely and visibly showing a culture of safe working."

Students gain valuable insight at LGH's Lift and Move USA event

The LGH headquarters in Bridgeview, IL hosted 500 students in their massive work space to visit a variety of informative and hands-on stations organized by Lift and Move USA. The event is part of Lift and Move's larger initiative to provide high schoolers information and introductions into a variety of alternative career paths and occupations in the industry.

Cranes, SPMTs, gantries, trailers, virtual reality devices, and even the infamous Batmobile – lifted by a Lift Systems 44A gantry – were donated for the event.

Additionally skilled tradesman and representatives from SC&RA, NCCCO, SkillsUSA, Barnhart, Imperial Crane, DICA, Union 136, Dearborn Companies, Local 150, ITI and many other organizations were present and donating time, energy, and resources.

"If we could reach out to just a few of these kids it's a success," said Pat Clark, national rental support manager for LGH. "But I had kid after kid after kid coming up to me and shaking my hand. That was something I did not expect and nor will ever forget."

Lift and Move USA's next event is scheduled for September 14 in Indianapolis, IN and will be hosted by Buchanan Hauling. Find out more online at www.liftandmoveusa.com/.
